

Highlights

- School disruption during public health emergencies (PHEs) worsens inequalities.
- A systematic review of 52 studies examined equity in education policies during PHEs.
- Disadvantaged students, families and schools faced learning and teaching challenges.
- Targeted support should be provided to uphold education equity and inclusiveness.