Ceasario is a foreigner. He is from a country that is full of war and people do not have rights.
He fled to a country where people have rights and responsibilities, searching for a new life and opportunities.
He expected a better life with new opportunities but he experienced a lot of challenges.
Ceasario did not have an identification document or passport to enter into another country.
He went and stayed in a rural village. He did not have a house or basic needs.
People in the village did not treat him well because he was a foreigner. He could not get basic services.
Ceasario needed an identity documents so that he can have access to basic services.
He applied for an identity document, and a few months later he received it.
He taught people from the village that a foreigner must not be treated differently because he is from another country.
He started looking for a house and a job so, he can take care of himself. He is now able to go to the hospital whenever he is sick.
