Mr Nko, Ms Lorato, grandmother Wame, and the twins live in a small village called Dithakong.
Mr Nko and Ms Lorato go to work in the morning and return home in the evening.
Grandmother Wame stays home with the twins. She takes care of them.
The twins did not know their culture. This worried their parents.
Their parents and grandmother talked and decided to solve the problem.
Grandmother Wame sat with the twins to share knowledge about their culture.
The twins were very happy. They asked questions, and their grandmother answered them with joy.
The twins learned a lot about their culture. They hugged their grandmother joyfully.
The family members were filled with great joy. They sat together chatting about their culture.
