Tshireletso likes school
Acknowledgements

The following partners have played a valuable role in the co-creation of this storybook:

The North West Province Department of Education, Ngaka Modiri Molema District, South Africa.
The Department of Basic Education, Directorate: Rural Education, South Africa.
London South Bank University, United Kingdom.
The Economic & Social Research Council (ESRC) (ES/T005149/1), United Kingdom (funder).
Mr Ntsalo and Miss Remofiloe have a baby boy named Tshireletso. These two parents taught their child to respect each and every person.
Tshireletso is a light-skinned boy. He has a big head full of knowledge. He is 12 years old.
Tshireletso liked his homework very much. He never went to play without checking whether he did all his homework. His homework was always up to date. He was in Grade 7 at Masephe Primary School.
He was living at Meetmekaar village. His village was far from where he was going to school. His parents were very responsible. They made sure that Tshireletso always had bus fare.
During the last term of school, Tshireletso came across a challenge. His parents started to run out of money for him to travel by bus as usual. This challenge made Tshireletso very worried.
Tshireletso started to walk a very long distance from home to school. Walking such a distance made him lose focus at school. He would sleep in the classroom during learning sessions because of tiredness. His teacher noticed and then decided to tell Tshireletso’s parents about this.
Mr Ntsalo sat alone under the tree and started to reflect. He said, “I must do everything in my power to make sure that Tshipaleletso pays attention and does well in school like he used to do.” He came up with an idea.
Mr Ntsalo and Miss Remofiloe took money from their savings and bought their child a new bicycle to travel from home to school. Tshireletso was very happy to have a bicycle as transport to school.
Tshireletso likes school

Authors:

Masephe Primary School, Gr 3A, 2022, North-West Province, South Africa

http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools