A deaf girl
Published by: The UCL Centre for Educational Leadership, University College London & The Centre for the Study of Resilience, University of Pretoria.

This publication can be copied, translated or adapted when necessary steps have been taken to acknowledge all relevant sources.

Authors: G.J. Podile Primary School, Grade 2C, 2022:

School: G.J. Podile Primary School
Principal: Setlhare Modise
Teacher: Pulane Maribe
CRC: Tumelo Romeo Ntshanga
Fieldworker: Nomhle Mboneni

Illustrators:
Cover: Banyana Sibanda
Page 1: Karabo Moitse
Page 2: Lesedi Lewis
Page 3: Tsinotenda Paringira
Page 4: Kgalalelo Seisho
Page 5: Tlhabiso Seidwe
Page 6: Aoratwe Sefo

Font within booklet: Grade 1 font by Edu-Aid

Websites and links were correct at the time of publication. For further information about the project, please visit http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools

Acknowledgements

The following partners have played a valuable role in the co-creation of this storybook:

The North West Province Department of Education, Ngaka Modiri Molema District, South Africa.
The Department of Basic Education, Directorate: Rural Education, South Africa.
London South Bank University, United Kingdom.
The Economic & Social Research Council (ESRC) (ES/T005149/1), United Kingdom (funder).
There was a girl called Kesaoleboga.
She was deaf. The children in the village didn’t know that she couldn’t hear and that she was communicating with her hands.
She struggled to play well with other children, which upset her.
She told her teacher at school that she was struggling to play with other children because they didn’t understand her.
The school management made a plan to find a teacher who could teach sign language to the learners.
Kesaoleboga was happy because she could communicate and play well with other learners.
A deaf girl

Authors:

G.J. Podile Primary School, Gr 2C, 2022, North-West Province, South Africa

http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools