The naughty goats
Acknowledgements

The following partners have played a valuable role in the co-creation of this storybook:

The North West Province Department of Education, Ngaka Modiri Molema District, South Africa.
The Department of Basic Education, Directorate: Rural Education, South Africa.
London South Bank University, United Kingdom.
The Economic & Social Research Council (ESRC) (ES/T005149/1), United Kingdom (funder).

School: G.J. Podile Primary School
Principal: Setlhare Modise
Teacher: Lesedi Nkwe
CRC: Gaofengwe Semenekane
Fieldworker: Nomhle Mboneni

Illustrators:
Cover: Molemo Tsima
Page 1: Goitsemmodimo Teemane
Page 2: Larry Ncube
Page 3: Mpho Moabi
Page 4: Bothale Motsilo
Page 5: Thusano Maleke
Page 6: Mpho Maseng
Page 7: Refilwe Mosakageng
Page 8: Thuto Molefe

Font within booklet: Grade 1 font by Edu-Aid

Websites and links were correct at the time of publication.
For further information about the project, please visit http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools
Long ago, there were two naughty and stubborn goats at Maruping village, known as fertile land.
The two goats went into the garden that was protected by the animals.
The crow saw them. The crow tried to stop them, but they didn’t listen. They lied to the crow, saying that the garden belonged to them now.
The crow believed them and ate along with them. Luckily the chicken was nearby, listening to every single word the goats said.
The chicken tiptoed to tell the cow that the fruits and vegetables were being eaten.
The cow came running to stop them. When the crow arrived, the goats got scared and tried to run to the gate, but the cow was standing in front of the gate.
The goats tried to change the subject by blaming the crow for telling them to come and eat.
The chicken interrupted, telling the cow the whole story. The goats asked for forgiveness. They would only be forgiven if they replanted all the fruits and vegetables that had been eaten.
The responsibility of all the animals was to take care of the farm. They worked together to stop whoever was eating the fruits and vegetables.
The naughty goats

Authors:
G.J. Podile Primary School, Gr 3A, 2022, North-West Province, South Africa

http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools