I am important
Published by: The UCL Centre for Educational Leadership, University College London & The Centre for the Study of Resilience, University of Pretoria.

This publication can be copied, translated, or adapted when necessary steps have been taken to acknowledge all relevant sources.

Authors: Pudulogo Primary School, Grade 2A, 2022:

School: Pudulogo Primary School
Principal: Maite Rosina Rasekgokge
Teacher: E.D Mogosetso
CRC: R.A Tau
Fieldworker: Modiegi Moleloaatladi

Illustrators:
Cover: Manuel Hlulani
Page 1: Mojaki Oregolele
Page 2: Bogatsu Remofilwe
Page 3: Manuel Olerato
Page 4: Kheto Kaone
Page 5: Ramathibela Lethobo
Page 6: Mosala Onkabetse
Page 7: Motsuenyane Omatla
Page 8: Maneul Orapeleng
Page 9: Kunene Boitshepo

Font within booklet: Grade 1 font by Edu-Aid

Websites and links were correct at the time of publication. For further information about the project, please visit http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools

Acknowledgements

The following partners have played a valuable role in the co-creation of this storybook:

The North West Province Department of Education, Ngaka Modiri Molema District, South Africa.
The Department of Basic Education, Directorate: Rural Education, South Africa.
London South Bank University, United Kingdom.
The Economic & Social Research Council (ESRC) (ES/T005149/1), United Kingdom (funder).
Pearl is a polite girl. She comes from a family of farmers. Pearl does not know her culture.
“Hello, my name is Katlego, and who are you?” “I am Pearl,” said Pearl. “Where do you live?” asked Katlego. “I live in this village, but I am still new”, Pearl replied.
“Katlego, I would like to be your friend,” said Pearl.
“Yes, it’s fine. Let’s go play football”, said Katlego.
The other children and I are preparing to go to a cultural celebration. Everyone has a right to wear their traditional dress and eat their traditional food," said Katlego.
“What are you going to do, Katlego?” asked Pearl. “I have never celebrated a cultural day, and I don’t even know my culture.”
“Ha-ha-ha, are you saying you don’t know your culture?” “Yes, I don’t know it,” Pearl said.
“Why is Katlego laughing at me? I will ask my grandmother what my culture is. I will ask her to teach me about my culture,” Pearl said.
Pearl’s grandmother and Katlego taught her about different cultures, traditional food and games.
On the day of the cultural celebration, Pearl was very proud that she knew her culture.
I am important

Authors:

Pudulogo Primary School, Gr 2A, 2022, North-West Province, South Africa

http://www.ucl.ac.uk/ioe/enabling-schools