It is time to write Maths, everyone takes out their book and write before we go out to eat.
We are done writing we are going to eat our lunch. Didi trips and fell down “po!”, and her food spilled.
Tshireletso and Nofefe comforted her, and they tell her to stop running with food.
They played with her and gave her food after that they all played skipping rope.
While they were still playing, forgetting that Didi fell, their teacher called them.
Clap hands for yourselves you children are smart, “said the teacher”. She gave them sweets, then the children laughed and they happily sang.
