At Thuto Bothale Primary School, there was a boy named Ranthomeng. He was born with a disability. He had a short arm.

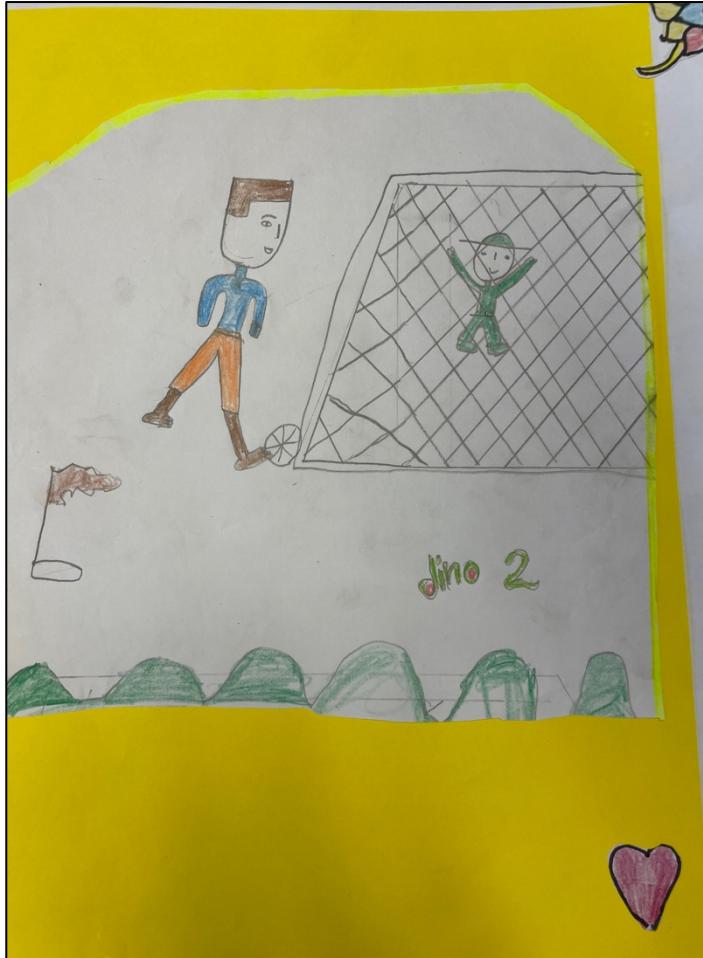

Growing up, he struggled to do many things, like bathing himself. He joined the soccer team at the school. His friends laughed at him and discouraged him.

He did not lose hope. He trained every day to reach his dream.

Ranthomeng injured his leg while busy training and was admitted to the hospital. He was heartbroken but told himself that he would never give up.

He was discharged from the hospital and went back to school. He participated in a soccer match and scored two goals before halftime.

When the game continued into the second halftime, he scored another three goals.

He gave the school a blessing of five goals, and then the match ended.

After the soccer game,
there were tears of joy all over the school, and his friends just wanted to be like him.

Ranthomeng opened many peoples' eyes to the fact that disability is not an illness. Do not laugh at those in trouble, as no one knows what the future holds.
