

Figure II. Adherence, invasion and penetration of gram-negative bacteria such as E.coli across the loose small intestinal mucus layer via association of bacterial adjuvants such as LPS with IECs. The immune system thus triggers a proinflammatory response after exposure to bacterial antigens by APCs, leading to development of IBD symptoms and inflammation.