

Highlights

- IIP total scores improved considerably following psychotherapy for depression.
- For brief psychotherapy, the effect size of IIP score reduction was large, $g=0.74$.
- A small but notable improvement in IIP total beyond treatment end was indicated.
- IIP subscales scores generally improved after psychotherapy.
- The lack of reporting of interpersonal problems in depression trials is notable.